Galactic Timeline

(A timeline of the history of the Federation, the Milky Way Galaxy, and the Universe)

-6,000,000,000 TOS

The Architects construct the Guardian of Forever on the Guardian's Planet; later, they created the Devil's Heart, a seedling of the Guardian that would be planted to grow on another world into another Guardian (TNG:DH, 255) (TNG:47, 228).

The Architects transcend corporeal form and become the Q (TNG:47).

-5,500,000,000 TOS

Two stars less than 27 light years apart go nova within months of each other. The resulting shockwaves lead to the creation of the Halkan system, the largest known deposit of dilithium in the galaxy (ST: P, 231)

-5,000,000,000 TOS

The Q that routinely tests humanity is born into the Continuum (TNG:47, 157).

The Q and M Continuum war against one another (IQ).

-2,000,000 TOS

The Erisian home-world is struck by an asteroid, which kills off all land-life, but not the Erisian Super-whales, who use their telekinesis to maintain ash free zones in the oceans (TOS:P, 263).

The cliff-dwellers of the jade pueblos of Tagus III (TNG:47, 195).

-1,000,000 TOS

Q releases the being known as 0 from his prison within the Guardian of Forever (TNG:47)

Q releases Gorgan, the Beta XII-A entity, and the Sha-Ka-Ree entity from within the Guardian of Forever (TNG:48, 88)

The Risori encounter the Nexus Gate near their home system. After studying the Nexus, the Risori turn its energies on itself causing the Nexus Gate system to form through uncountable alternate universes (TOS:43, 246).

-500,000 TOS

The Probe is constructed by the Erisian Superwhales to search for other intelligent life throughout the galaxy (TOS:P, 1)

-370,000 TOS

---

The Borg, encounter the Erisian probe near the edge of the galaxy. The Probe is severely damaged in the battle, and the Borg ascertain the location of the Erisian homeworld (TOS:P, 193).

-300,000 TOS

The Borg, unable to assimilate the Erisian Superwhales, cause the system's sun to collapse into a white dwarf, changing the climate of Erisia and freezing its oceans. After the Borg leave them for dead, the Superwhales use their telekinesis to shatter their planet's moon and create starships, which they use to abandon their home-world (TOS:P, 261).

-250,000 TOS

---

The Kh!lic civilization is destroyed when environmental changes on their home world cause their food animals to die (TOS:65).

-207,000 TOS

The Probe encounters the Borg near the galactic rim of the Delta quadrant. Its crystalline memory core is damaged in the resulting battle (TOS:P, 160).

-198,000 (app) TOS

The Central Node of the Borg Homeworld is sealed for 200,000 years, until opened by Captains Kirk and Picard (TNG:TR, 356).

-105,000 TOS

The Furies, who have conquered some 217 million star systems across the Alpha and Beta Quadrants and subjugated thousands of races, face their first serious threat with the arrival of the Unclean. Possibly from another galaxy, the Unclean begin to attack Fury worlds (V:9, 1).

Under the command of Subcart Ramszak the Ok'San, the Furies lose nearly 93 million ships in their first major engagement against the Unclean (V:9, 2).

The Fury/Unclean War continues for nearly one hundred thousand years (V:9, 1).

-100,000 TOS

---

Descendants of the Erisians abandon their colony worlds after discovering that the Borg are searching for them. In their cities they leave Exodus Halls, maps that lure the Borg into uninhabited star systems where the Erisians detonate the stars (TOS:P, 154)

The Meztorien Empire falls to the Darneel Invasion within the Dulciphar Cluster. The loss throws the Empire into a dark age from which it never recovers (TOS:65, 6).

-89,700 TOS

The Risori civilization is destroyed by the Nexus Entities. The Risori leave their map of the Nexus system for future civilizations that stumble across the gate system (TOS:43, 113).

-70,000 TOS

The first Borg vessel triggers an Erisian star-trap (TOS:P, 156).

-48,000 TOS

---

The Beta XII-A entity begins the civil war that destroys Cheron (TNG:48, 98). (Est) The Kremastor discover the Nexus system and use it for several centuries before discovering the Nexus entities. They build the Nexus trap to force ships infected by the Nexus entities out of the gateway system. The system is effective for some time, but eventually the entity reached the Kremastor home world and their civilization is nearly destroyed (TOS:43, 199).

-22,000 TOS

---

The first archeological digs begin on Tagus III (TNG:47, 196).

-20,000 TOS

---

The Kremastor reach spaceflight and recover records of their earlier civilization detailing the Nexus. After attempting unsuccessfully to shut the Nexus down with crewed flights, the cyborg ship Kremastor is launched to destroy the Nexus system, but gets caught in the Trap when Kremastor is infected by the Nexus entities (TOS:43, 174).

-10,000

The most violent era of Pre-Reformation Vulcan begins, in which no less than 10% of Vulcan was at war. This era of violence was to last nearly 8,000 years (TOS: 35, 38).

-15,000 TOS

The Aragos homeworld is destroyed after the Nexus entities cause insanity among its populace (TOS:43, 52).

-5,000 TOS

Under the command of Tiin, the Cannibal Whose Bed Would not be Shared, the remaining 50 thousand Fury ships engage the Unclean. During the battle, pent-up energy within the Bajoran wormhole generated by an Unclean incursion some four million years later is unleashed, destroying a majority of the Unclean and transporting the remaining ships to the Gamma Quadrant. The remnants of the Furies are also thrown by this explosion into the Delta Quadrant (V:9, 3).

The Danon (a Fury subrace?) encounter the Torga and start a second war that lasts for thousands of years, the Danon are eventually beaten back to Heartland, where they construct the Great Machine as a defense mechanism (TOS:DW, 134).

The Furies found their new homeworld in the Delta Quadrant (V:9, 3).

The Fury Autocrat D'Mass unites the 167 species of Furies together to work towards returning to the Alpha Quadrant (V:9, 4).

Upon D'Mass's death, the Furies are divided between his sons; D'Vass and Bin Mass. After a brutal civil war, most of the Furies side with Bin Mass and his decision to build an artificial wormhole to return to the Alpha Quadrant. D'Vass and some forty thousand followers depart for unknown space (V:9, 4).

Between -500,000 and -5,000 (app)

The Devil's Heart strays from its trajectory and crashes on T'Kon, there it is used by the Iconians to build a massive interstellar empire (TNG:DH 255). The Empire numbers some 7 trillion inhabitants (TNG:48, 139).

The T'Kon empire attempts to use a massive transporter array to move its dying star and replace it with a healthy star from an uninhabited system. Known as the Great Endeavor, the engineering feat takes the combined resources of the entire empire.

The T'Kon empire is nearly destroyed by a half century of testing by the cosmic beings of O, Q, Gorgan, and the Beta XII-A and Sha-Ka-Ree entities. The T'Kon homeworld is destroyed just after the Empress reunites her people when O causes their star to supernova.

The Iconian civilization is destroyed by its enemies; a scant few members of that race escape to the worlds of Dynasia, DiWahn, and Ikkabar.

The Iconian refugees on DiWahn become a caste of the DiWahn society that becomes known as the UnDiWahn (DH). Iconian refugees on Dynasia found a planetwide university that becomes the ruling body of the planet. The Faculty 'donates' technology to the Dynasians intermittently, allowing the Iconians to determine the progress of Dynasian society (DH).

Between - 5,000 and -1,000 (app)

The Old Culture uses their long distance transporter to leave Faramond (TOS: BD)

Clan Archenida wins the Vulcan's Glory from House Kawarda at the battle of Deen T'Zal (TOS: 44, 77)

-3000 B.C.

The 'Benefactors', an alien race that guides the development of cultures, collects Humans to train for this task. The training and breeding program lasts 6000 years, resulting in Gary Seven (TOS:84, 9).

-2500 B.C.

A suspected sunkiller bomb is used by the Orion Congeries to destroy the homeworld of the Inshai Compact. The decentralization of the Orion corporate structure devolved the Orion civilization to wars for profit and piracy (TOS: 35, 38).

-800 B.C.

Radiation destroys the planets of the Taygetian system; the Singers planet is protected thanks to their ability to project a mental shield to protect their world (TOS:19, 71)

-22 B.C.

After decades of negotiation, Vulcan officials agree to meet Orion representatives at shi'Kahr. The Orions take hostages and kill many Vulcans, beginning the Vulcan-Orion War (TOS: 35, 40)

-21 B.C.

Led by S'Task, pro-aggression Vulcans eventually riot across Vulcan, destroying several smaller cities. Surak is almost killed negotiating peace in Nekhie, and S'Task goes into seclusion (TOS: 35, 42)

Between - 1,000 and 0 (app)

The Devil's Heart finds its way to Vulcan, where it is known as Ko N'Ya (Bloodstone). Surak comes into contact with the Ko N'Ya on the battlefield of Mt. Seleya. Surak leaves the stone on the battlefield, where it is taken by Garamond. Legends state that this is the point at which Surak begins his preaching towards the suppression of emotions. (TNG:DH 111).

At a desert oasis, Surak and his followers begin their nonviolence teachings. Early invaders of the oasis could not kill Surak and his people as the warrior code forbade the killing of unarmed people. This location eventually grows into the Vulcan Academy of Sciences and the city of ShiKahr (TOS:20, 183).

Surak's call for Logic is countered by his relative T'Pel, who founds the school of Analogics. She introduces the Adepts of T'Pel, a league of assassins who glorify mindless violence. The violence of the Adepts served to strengthen Surak's teachings, and the majority of the populace turned to Surak.

The most powerful of the Mind-Lords of Vulcan, Zakal of Shanikahr, dies of Lunglock fever. His foremost disciple Khoteth, also known as Sotek, fulfills his promise to his dying master to preserve his Katra (TLY, 9).

Vulcan dissidents, led by Surak's foremost disciple S'Task, leave Vulcan after deciding that Surak's movement is best for Vulcan, but would leave no room for them in Vulcan society. This event is referred to as the Sundering. Some colonize the world of Thorva, while the vast majority land on the twin planet system of ch'Havran (Romulus and Remus) (FOP, 38). Nearly half of the refugees perish when future Romulans travel back in time and alter their genetic codes in an attempt to create a stronger race (TOS:24, 75). While they are successful, they inadvertently eliminate some natural resistance to disease. T'Pol and the last of her Adepts travel aboard these ships (TOS:42, 225). Garamond takes the No Kya with him during the Sundering (TNG:DH 114).

Garamond becomes the first king of Romulus. Upon his death, the No K'ya is stolen by his wife, J'Ross. (TNG:DH, 120).

The Devil's Heart finds its way to the Klingon homeworld. Kessec finds the First Empire with the help of the Bloodstone. Rather than pass the Bloodstone to his sons, Kessec gives the stone to his personal attendant, Halaylah. (TNG, DH, 66)

Halaylah founds an artist colony on Atropos. When she dies, the Bloodstone is buried with her. (TNG:DH)

Bardak the Traitor and Kahless the Conqueror meet in battle at Fom Kerdeth; Kahless nearly dies when General Renarg kills his entire General staff in a suicide mission (DS9:22)

The Klingons steal space-faring travel from aliens who land on their planet (DS9WW: 184)

As the Karsids absorb the Klingons of Klinzhai around 1540 AD, one might surmise that this is in the history of the Imperial Race, or perhaps Klingons lost space travel at some point.

Klingons and Romulans first encounter each other soon after the Klingons begin to explore space (TOS:38, 269).

0-10

S'Tark leads a movement, the Declared, to build a fleet of ships to take Vulcans who rejected Surak's message to a New Vulcan. Privately funded, the starship construction program threatens to plunge Vulcan into an economic depression. To stop the depression, Vulcan banking cartels choose to entirely fund the construction of the ship, in exchange for the technology patents that result (TOS: 35, 75).

The Declared choose the elements of Vulcan culture they wish to retain. They also create a new language based on Ancient Vulcan and change their name to Rihannsu (TOS: 35, 79).

S'harien, considered to be the greatest swordsmith of Vulcan history, converts to Surak's cause and begins to smelt his swords. Surak convinces the owners of the three greatest S'harien's to give their swords to the Declared, so they can be kept safe (TOS: 35, 81).

Surak is pursued by General Solon across a Vulcan sea (ST: P, 116)

Under the leadership of S'Task, eighty thousand Vulcans leave their homeworld in multigenerational ships based on Orion technology to found a new Vulcan founded on the pre-Reformation society (TOS: 35, 43). These ships included the Rhea's Helm, Warbird, Starcatcher, T'Hie, Pennon, Bloodwing, Corona, Lance, Gorget, Sunheart, Forge, Lost Road, Blacklight, Firestorm, Vengeance, Memory, and Shield. (TOS: 35, 100). Seven of the vessels were lost in the black hole in the 198 Eri system; two more vessels lost to the Iruhe; two in slingshot maneuvers, . Diseases killed nearly seventy percent of the remaining colonists, and the psionic arts died out (TOS: 35)

560s

The Declared arrive at the Twin Worlds and the Romulan civilization is founded (TOS: 35)

630s

---

Queen T'Rehu wrests control of the Grand Council and takes control of the Romulan Twin Worlds (TOS: 35, 140)

A famine, possibly caused by a bioengineered virus, wipes out the grain foods of the Southern continent of ch'Rihan. T'Rehu uses this event to consolidate her rule by disbanding the Council. When S'Task refuses to acknowledge her rule, he is killed (TOS: 35, 141)

630 to 810

Romulan civilization engages in numerous wars on the Southern continent of ch-Rihan and the Eastern continent of ch'Havran (TOS: 35, 163)

930 to 1030

One by one the Ships of the Declared fall from orbit (TOS: 35, 165)

1060s

---

The Romulans develop a planetary defense system that constitutes their entire space program for nearly 1500 years (TOS: 35, 166)

1486

Aretan civilization is nearly destroyed in a devastating nuclear war that leaves most of world a radioactive wasteland (TOS: 44, 70)

Karsid agents make first trade contacts with the Thersach, the largest and most powerful industrial federation of Klinzhai (TOS:23, 66)

1540

The Klingons are absorbed into the Karsid empire and are transformed into a space-age society from a feudal society in a generation. Klingons serve as mercenaries in the Karside empire. (TOS:23, 66).

1667

Centauran warlord Zalar Mag'nees establishes a school for scientists to bring new ideas to warfare. With her corps of scientists, Mag'nees brings about a Golden Age in which Centaurus becomes a unified world (TOS:42, 160).

1700s

(Conjecture) The Vulcan vessel He-Shii is lost en route to a Vulcan colony world. On board in the Vulcan's Glory (TOS: 44, 77).

1868

The Karsid Empire places monitoring probes around the Earth and begins to observe our society prior to annexation (TOS: 23, 147).

1873

Karsid agents approach the Grant Administration to propose trade agreements, Grant spurs their advances due to the urging of Congressman Aaron Stemple, and the Karsids elect not to annex Earth into their Empire (TOS:23, 147).

1875

T'Kahr Savar is elected the first prefect of offworld exploration for Vulcan. Savar's policy, a precursor to the Prime Directive, stressed 'Destruction before Detection' (TOS:SFTS, 31)

1950s

---

Reticulans begin to visit the Earth. Over the next fifty years, they do try to interfere in the progress of human civilization, to little avail (ST: P, 242)

1960

Vulcan Scientists develop warp drive (TOS:42)

1990s

Voyager probe launched; the probe is later believed to have swallowed by a black hole, but is actually caught within a transwarp conduit.

The Eugenics Wars lead to the destruction of the Greek Parthenon (TNG: 47, 225) and widespread destruction in Iran (TOS: 54, 153). Started as an effort to improve the human genome, the Eugenics Wars lead to genetic supermen such as Khan and introduce new genetic defects and diseases on Earth's population (TOS:38, 164).

1996

The Eugenics War ends when Khan is overthrown, partly due to the actions of Gary Seven and Roberta Lincoln (TOS:84, 271). Khan and his most loyal followers escape from Earth. Those of his followers on Earth that survived are sent to live in internment camps (TOS:66, 133).

2000-2045

Voyager VI is lost in a time-space distortion, the first fully documented observance of these phenomena by humanity (ST: TMP, 241).

The Pentagon and the Kremlin combine into the PentaKrem (TOS:SFTS, 61).

MediaComm becomes an international news agency (TOS:SFTS, 60).

AeroNav Control controls Earth space traffic, main headquarters located at Norfolk Island Command Center (TOS:STFS, 16).

United Earth Council asserts itself as the new United Nations (TOS:SFTS, 261).

The Back to Earth Movement calls for a stop in space exploration at a return to Earth from all colonies (TOS:SFTS, 297).

A dangerous addiction to electrical stimuli made directly to the pleasure center of the brains leads to numerous cases of Wireheads, human who atrophy due to an addiction to be continuously wired to the system (TOS:80, 88).

A bioengineered virus is used on Earth to keep cocaine and heroin from attaching to the pleasure receptors of the brain. Although successful in treating drug addiction, it lead to a generation of emotionally impaired individuals. (TOS:80, 227).

A terrorist group detonates a series of explosives at Times Square on New Years. The event leads to a collapse of a presidential administration (IQ, 48).

The First manned mission to Jupiter orbits the planet and descends into the Great Red Spot (TOS:43, 81).

The Mediterranean Alliance builds the massive Gibraltar Hydroelectric power Station, which drains a great deal of volume from the Mediterranean Sea and helps to alter the climate of southern Europe and Northern Africa (ST: TMP, 27).

The United States adds six new states to the union (TOS: 54, 174; conjecture as to time period)

2026

The first crewed Mars lander, the Aries IV, arrives on the planet. Ten dollar coins are minted to commemorate the event (ST: P, 363)

2028

Melody Sawyer second-seeds at the Goddard Moonbase Tennis Semifinals (TOS:SFTS, 101).

2038

---

UN resolution 51, the 'Khan's Stepchildren' Resolution, states that no Earth citizen could be held liable for the actions of their ancestors. Furthermore, it declared the human status of human-variant strains created in the labs that brought about Khan and his super-soldiers (TOS:66, 106).

2043

The use of behavior-control implants leads to the first of the Mind Control Revolts on Earth (ST: TMP, 16)

2045

The terrorist group Alliance for the Twelfth of November gains momentum(TOS:SFTS, 60).

Kelpwilt threatens the sea farms of the Pacific, which provide a majority of food to the world (TOS:SFTS, 60).

A malfunctioning Vulcan scoutship crashes in the Pacific ocean (TOS:SFTS, 7).

The Twelfth of December Alliance, working with the Easter Rebellion terrorist cell, attack the Antarctic Byrd Research Station in an attempt to capture the downed Vulcans. With the help of a displaced away team from the USS Enterprise led by Captain Kirk, station personnel stop the terrorists and help the Vulcans return to their world using a DY-100 Interstellar craft. The existence of the Vulcan landing is erased from the memories of those involved, both by the Enterprise crew and by PentaKrem officials (TOS:SFTS, 386)

Sorahl and T'Lera, the downed Vulcans, encounter a Vulcan automated mining vessel and piggyback their DY-100 to it, returning to Vulcan in less than one year (TOS:SFTS, 400).

Yoshiomi Nakamura patents Sorahlaze, a cure for kelpwilt, with AgroInternational. Sorahlaze is later discovered to be the creation of Sorahl (TOS:SFTS, 397).

Welcome, an organization devoted to preparing humans for first contact, reaches international stature following the the recruitment of Tatiana Bilash, one of those to have been mind-wiped as a result of the Vulcan crash landing (TOS:SFTS, 398).

2047

The last of the Mind Control Revolts on Earth leads to the banning of behavior-control implants (ST: TMP, 16).

2048

The UNSS Icarus arrives at the Alpha Centauri system and makes First Contact with the Centaurans (TOS: SFTS, 7)

The Mind Control Riots lead to the ban of mind-altering drugs and techniques (TOS: SFTS, 291).

15 yrs prior to WWIII, Hawking leaves Earth.

AeroNav control gives way to the United Earth Space Probe Agency (TOS:SFTS, 247).

Starbase One, a space station built within the core of a hollowed-out asteroid, is brought into operation. (DS9:16, 26)

The first interstellar fusion engines are tested at Starbase One, paving the way for interstellar travel. (DS9:16, 26).

2050s

Under the charter of the Consortium, terraforming of Mars begins with the use of Zubrin craters, biodomes created by transparent, nanoplastic coverings (Conjecture) (ST: P, 151)

The Nautilus, a submarine operated on Europa, is destroyed by European squid, the first contact with nonsentient intelligences off of Earth (conjecture) (ST: P, 229).

A Vulcan probeship surveys Earth and determines that Earth is on the brink of world war. The Vulcan Science Academy decides to not send another probe ship to Earth for 100 years (ST: P, 205)

2055, 2060 (?)

Human warp drive is invented by Zefram Cochrane (TOS: SFTS, 7 TOS: 42).
Alt One: World War III

2060

World War III begins as a nuclear war decimates most of the planet. Vast portions of California are reduced to radioactive wasteland. Drug lords rise to take control of the temperate zones of the planet. The Eastern coalition controls the Pacific Rim and Eastern Asia. (TNG:FC, 41). Unable to receive medication or an implant for his psychological disorders, Zefram Cochrane slips into a dementia that many mistake for alcoholism, a belief furthered by his propensity to drink to hide his pain. Cochrane sometimes suffers bouts of lucidity in which he develops the warp drive (TNG:FC, 121). Long-standing conspiracy theories will state that the Vulcans have pre-knowledge of the atomic conflict and do not intervene for their own personal gain (ST:CP, 99).

During the war, some factions use asteroid deflection system to use asteroids for orbital bombardment of enemy locations (ST: P, 133).

The Indonesian Space Agency becomes the predominant force for space exploration (TNG:FC, 204).

(APP) Evidence that a space-faring race once existed on the moon is discovered of an alien base on the moon nearly one million years ago (ST: TMP, 99)

2062

A violent earthquake destroys all of San Francisco except for Oldtown (TLY, 107).

2063

April 6th A Borg sphere travels back in time and conducts an orbital bombardment of Zefram Cochrane's launch site in Montana. The Enterprise-E destroys the sphere but is infested by Borg who manage to transport on board.

April 7th Zefram Cochrane launches the warp prototype vessel Phoenix from an abandoned missile silo in Montana, with the aid of the Enterprise-E crew. The Borg attempt to use the Enterprise-E to destroy the Phoenix, but are in turn destroyed by Picard and Data (TNG:FC)

Cochrane's warp signature is detected by a Vulcan research vessel, which lands at the Montana launch site and makes First Contact with humans (TNG: FC). The Vulcan vessel has been diverted by the Academy for unknown reasons; records of the order change have since disappeared (ST: P, 205)

2065

UNSS Amity rescues a Vulcan craft adrift in the solar system (TOS:SFTS, 8)

2068

Vulcan embassy to Earth established (TOS:SFTS, 8).

2070s

---

The first nuclear war is fought on the Klingon homeworld (TOS: 54, 224).

(Conjecture) The first starship built with warp drive, the Bonaventure, is lost on her third voyage (STL4:TT, 117).

Rayla Gundersdotter signed the Fundamental Declarations of the Mars Colonies, starting the War of Independence (Mars Revolution). The militia responds by destroying the Fort Lincoln Zubrin Crater, killing Gundersdotter and her supporters. 50 days later, Earth rescinds the development licenses of Mars and Mars wins her independence (Conjecture) (ST: P, 154)

2072

Descendants of the Eugenics Wars leave Earth and found the colony on Discord (TOS:66, 100).

2073

Yoshiomi Nakamura joins a delegation of scientists to Vulcan and applies for Vulcan citizenship (TOS: SFTS, 399).

2079

Doctor Palmer stages a conference in San Francisco that lays the groundwork for the creation of the United Federation of Planets (TOS:24, 282 - moved ahead twenty years to fit timeline ).

2070s

Dr. Antoine Erisi links the ruins on several worlds to a common race, now named the Erisians. The Erisian culture share similarities in many different Alpha Quadrant cultures. (TOS:P, 133).

Romulans attempt to drive a wedge through the center of the Federation in the battle of Rift 23 (TOS:12, 134).

The Resolution of Non-Interference is signed. Referred to as the the Federation's Bill-of-Rights, the Resolution sets forth many of the principles that will govern the federation, including the Prime Directive. Thaddeus Riker is among the signers of the Resolution (TNG:55, 57).

2080 (app)

Romulan forces, primarily commanded by Adepts of T'Pol from the nation-states of Kihai and Llunih, attack Earth vessels and bring about the Romulan War (TOS:42, 226) The Romulan War is the last war in which fusion weapons are used (ST:CP, 154).

Romulans attempt to drive a wedge through the center of the Federation in the battle of Rift 23 (TOS:12, 134).

The Resolution of Non-Interference is signed. Referred to as the the Federation's Bill-of-Rights, the Resolution sets forth many of the principles that will govern the federation, including the Prime Directive. Thaddeus Riker is among the signers of the Resolution (TNG:55, 57).

2085

Romulan Forces destroy Starbase One and the USS Patton (Conjecture at time, event listed in ST: FF, 189).

2 years earlier than Cheron, Earth forces push Romulan forces back just outside the borders of Solar system.

2087

Romulans suffer a staggering loss at Cheron.

Earth President Lydia Littlejohn receives acceptance from the Romulans of the Treaty of Algeron, ending the Earth-Romulan War. Space Station Omega /

Ch'Mrelkhre is built as a checkpoint for individuals traveling across the Neutral Zone (TOS: 25, 234)

The first Babel Interplanetary Conference is held. One of the elder statesmen from Earth is Tatiana Bilash, the head of Welcome (TOS:SFTS, 398).

The Federation of Planets is formed (TOS: SFTS, 7).

The Starfleet is created under the supervision of Earth Space Command Admiral Ed Walker and Presidential Advisor Clarisse Dumont.

The Symmetrist Movement begins on Vulcan in response to the formation of the Federation. The Symmetrist urge Vulcan to remain out of the Federation. The Symmetrists argue that there is a galactic ecology rather than a multitude of individual planetary ecologies. They argue that the Federation must serve as stewards of this ecology, not exploiters, and that the galaxy was no different than a living being (STA, 173).

The Freedom for Synthetics movement spearheads a move to declare artificial intelligence a form of protected sentience with full rights. A Synthetic Revolt on Titan ends when a probeship mind, realizing that the Sol Council is at a deadlock on the issue, commits suicide by plunging into the sun. The probeship copies its mind into a public databank in Iceland, a copy that is shown to lack the sentience the probeship mind developed. The World Court decides that for an intelligence to die, it must have lived, and a resolution against slavery of both self-aware machines and energy matrices is passed (TOS:42, 149).

Rigellians demand 8 billion credits to cover the expenses of incorporating into the Federation. Reportedly, veiled threats from Andor led to Rigel accepting the Articles of Federation. Rigellian delegates attempt to recover this sum time and time again for the next century, with interest accrued, to no avail (TOS:16, 204).

2089

After two years of work, the Articles of Federation are completed at Babel (TOS:6, 195).

2092

First General Survey studies hundreds of systems within Federation space (TOS:66, 34).

2100-2200

---

Quadros One probe launched in the 22nd century for star mapping expedition of the Gamma Quadrant.

Tellarite Insurgency (conjecture) (TOS:SFTS, 105)

The Voyager IX probe encounters a Borg collective that assimilates by converting matter into energy. The collective is altered in its absorption of Voyager and devotes its energy towards retuning to Earth and meeting its creator (TNG:TR, 325).

A group of Symmetrist Terrorists take over a colony ship travelling to Deneva. They threaten to destroy the ship with explosives. A Starfleet rescue attempt saves some of the hostages, but at a terrible cost; 32 Starfleet personnel from the Archon, all the terrorists, and 408 of 650 colonists are killed in the rescue (STA, 177).

The First Klingon-Cardassian War begins with the Betreka Nebula incident. The war lasts eighteen years and ends in a stalemate (DS9:WW, 52) (Conjecture: Garak says the war was a long time ago.)

Solar powered planes replace jet airliners as the primary means of intercontinental travel on Earth (TOS:46, 94).

Earth builds a series of energy collectors from Jupiter to near Earth orbit that help to provide the power consumption needs of Earth (ST: TMP, 99).

The Great Quake devastates the western United States and San Francisco is nearly destroyed. Japan allows refugees of Japanese ancestry to emigrate to Japan (TOS: 54, 68; placement conjecture based on Nogura's comment about his great-great-great-grandfather).

The Great Victoria Earthquake submerges half the city of Vancouver. Vancouver is rebuilt with a canal system reminiscent of Venice (conjecture) (ST: P, 267)

2124

The First Federation Congress is held. Vulcan advocates the formation of a Federation wide Warrantors of the Peace proposal, which is universally rejected (TOS: 25, 19).

2130s (app)

The immune system support serum is created from the latium plant (ST:20).

2150s (app)

---

Boaco VI begins trade relations with the Federation and becomes a prime supplier of the chemical argea. Rabies is accidentally spread to this planet due to lax quarantine procedures (TOS:46, 23, 68).

2160s (app)

The Federation bans the development of microbial warfare (TOS: 37, 17).

(PARADOX)

The Carrizal takes a survey of the Romulan homeworlds. The Romulans panic at what they perceive to be a threat and begin to construct a defense fleet that numbered 7000 within a year (TOS: 35, 192)

The Balboa is destroyed entering the Romulan system. Romulan vessels lure the Stone Mountain into a trap and capture the vessel, thereby obtaining warp engines (TOS: 35, 193).

The Romulan War begins and lasts for 25 years. The War ends with the signing of the Treaty of Alpha Trianguli. (TOS: 35, 195).

2183

Sarek of Vulcan leads a Federation delegation in peace talks with the Klingon Empire (TOS:69, 12).

90 years after the Incorporation of the Federation (?), a Babel conference is held in San Francisco to discuss Starfleet's role in the Federation. Just prior to the conference beginning, Klingon agents assassinate Starfleet Chief of Staff Marcus van Diemen after Imperial Intelligence uncovers Van Diemen's attempts to foment a war between the Klingons and the Romulans. Klingon ambassador Kreen vestai-Rustazh trades the condemning documents to Starfleet in exchange for dilithium crystal research, now two years old and later found to be inferior to current levels of Klingon technology using dilithium. This secret deal directly leads to an extended Cold War between the two powers (TOS:16).

Klingon agents kill Maxwell Grandisson, head of the Back-to-Earth movement. His death, coupled with the public belief that the organization was responsible for the murder of Admiral van Diemen, spells the end of this movement in the mainstream (TOS:16, 230).

Krenn vestai-Rustazh puts a final end to Van Diemen's attempts to bring about war by thwarting a Klingon attack on the Federation colony of Serkash II (TOS:16, 236).

Klingons send a delegation to the Vulcan Science Colony Nisus. Klingon engineers are given the technology to build hydroelectric dams, which are used to combat drought on several colony worlds (TOS:38, 2).

2240s

Starfleet establishes the Navigational Hazard Classification Authority (TTM, 41).

Federation and Klingon forces battle at Donatu V (ENL, 60).

The Romulans attack the passenger ship Brass Ring when it accidentally strays into the Neutral Zone. The incident nearly leads to a renewal of hostilities until the Romulans agree to concessions regarding the rules of engagement in the Neutral Zone treaty. (TOS: 37, 157).

2246

Spock turns sixteen (STA, 273).

Kirk turns thirteen (STA, 273).

An outbreak of Fungus on Tarsus IV leads to the decimation of its grain crop. The Federation is unable to organize a relief party to Tarsus IV due to a build-up of Romulan forces along the Neutral Zone. Two relief missions, one led by Captain April of the Enterprise, and one led by Sarek of Vulcan, spearheaded by the U.S.S Dierdre under the command of Naranjit Singh of Earth Force vessels manages to reach the world with critical supplies, but not before Governor Kodos has made a grave decision; in order to save half of the population, Kodos has executed the other half, 4000 colonists (STA, 256; ENL, 57, TOS: 26, 39).

The Federation changes agricultural policies to mandate crop diversity and rotation to prevent a tragedy like Tarsus IV again. Although practiced at first, this agricultural policy is abandoned after a decade of implementation (STA, 308).

2248

Klingon Emperor Grannoch attempts to destroy the results of the M'tachtar genetic experiments by sending them on a suicide mission against a forewarned Starfleet. Starfleet captures the M'tachtar and places them on a deserted planet near the Neutral Zone, where they are monitored by Federation and Klingon personnel. -14 yrs TOS

2250s

Captain James Carmody of the starship Chafee leads an away team to Delar VII, where they become caught in a battle between Klingon-sponsored native forces. Carmody opens fire on both sides, killing dozens before his crew manages to stop him (TOS:55, 69). Prior to the creation of the neutral zone.

A Starfleet officer named Kell defects to the Klingons after a traumatic incident leaves him unable to bear the company of others. The subsequent public relations victory the Klingons garner from this action brand Kell with the moniker Kell the traitor (TOS:DW, 39).

Federation wins decisive victory against the Klingons at the battle of Donatu V.

Four Starfleet vessels sent to Vulcan on the Vulcanian Expedition to press the issue of Vulcan participation in Starfleet following complaints of Tellar and other members about Vulcans' reluctance to have citizens serve in Starfleet. The expedition results in the commissioning of the Intrepid. (TOS:SFTS, 268).

C'tanai forces attack the Federation several times (conjecture) (TOS:56,126).

Under the despot Harr Harath, Horidians attempt to invade the Federation world of Bendalia (conjecture) (TOS:56, 181).

A plague sparks a medical crisis on Cygnus III (TOS:76, 140).

Timshel Philosopher Der Kreef constructs the Joy Machine, which leads to a gradual cessation of meaningful work and a dependency on the Joy Machine by the inhabitants of the world (TOS:80).

Federation unveils a 50-year master plan for galactic exploration spearheading by the Constitution-Class vessel's five-year missions (conjecture) (ST:CP. 153).

Nisus shares medicine with the Klingon Empire that cures astigmatism and myopia (TOS:38, 51).

Due to reports that show that Starfleet Academy's standards are too high, the Academy lowers the requisite IQ parameters for line officers; James T Kirk's class is the first class to graduate under these relaxed parameters (ST:TMP, 7).

The Federation makes contact with the Marisha and introduces techniques to help them ring their overpopulation under control (TOS: 39, 59).

2267

The Organian Peace Treaty leads to an end to open hostilities between the Federation and the Klingon Empire (TNG:47, 60).

2260s

Federation Census lists the population of the Federation at 12,682,118,000,000 (TTM, 79).

Harriet Tubman disappears approximately 3.7 years before the end of the Enterprise's Five-year mission.

The Federation launches three deep-space probes to the Andromeda Galaxy to invite the remnants of the Kelvan Empire to settle within the Federation. Three ships are launched six months apart (ST:CP, 327)

Black Omne hosts a conference at the Black Hole calling for the dissolution of the Federation. Kirk and Omne both appear to die during the conference, only to reappear unharmed.

Director of Interplanetary Affairs Roblein reverses his stance of the Prime Directive, calling for a reconvening of the Black Hole conference on Voran. This conference is disrupted by an assassination attempt on Kirk and Omne (FOP)

The planet Razar collapses into civil war after a duplicate First Resident appears and claims he is rightful ruler. Both residents kill each other in a duel; Razar blames Omne and the Federation for the catastrophe (FOP, 127).

An alien probe created by the last member of an ancient race makes a complete scan of the Federation of Planets before self-destructing near Luna. The resultant auroras were visible for several weeks from Earth, and a majority of the communications network of Luna had to be replaced (STL6:ST, 138).

During the conflict at Organia, Captain Suvuk surrenders himself to the Klingons at Regulus in order to save over thirty Starfleet vessels. Suvuk escapes from the Mind Sifter, sabotages the Klingon flagship, and steals all data on board before escaping to the newly built Intrepid (TOS:18, 58).

The Romulans develop a technique to produce powerful ion storms by seeding stellar coronae; they use these storms to discourage Klingon raids on Romulan frontier worlds and to mask raids on Federation starships in which Vulcan subjects are kidnapped to be used in Project Sunseed, an attempt to graft Vulcan brain tissue to Romulans in order to give them similar mental abilities. A combined Federation/Romulan renegade force, using the starship Enterprise, destroy the project and all related data and free the Vulcan captives (TOS:18)

Commander McCoy is captured by Romulans and brought to trial in the Imperial Senate. He is aided in a daring escape from the Senate Chambers by renegade Ael and Lieutenant Naraht. Ael, accusing the Senate of selling their honor, takes the Sword from the Empty Chair, which had stood there since the Journey (TOS: 35, 229)

The Federation loses contact with Black Box Nebula Station One and presumes it destroyed (Ten years prior to events in TOS:15).

Commissioner of Interspecies Affairs Hightower uses the events on the planet Discord to argue that the Federation allows for 'cultural imperialism' by humans. The discovery that events on Discord were manipulated by Klingons seriously set back this viewpoint (TOS:66).

The K'Vin join the Federation, only to drop out several decades later when they discover they cannot see eye to eye with the council, in particular with the theory of the Prime Directive (TNG:12, 15).

Romulan operatives attempt to alter timelines to the Empire's favor. As a result, the Romulans wipe out half of their population, destroy a nearby civilization they were attempting to make more docile to conquest, and almost destroy the universe itself (TOS:24, 75).

The existence of the Guardian of Forever is made public knowledge. An agreement to not use the time gate for militaristic purposes is signed by the Klingon, Tholian, Romulan, Federation, and First Federation governments, and enforced by the installation of massive orbital fortresses and ground based anti-ship weapons (STL1:Y, 80).

Puil, Markor, and Anator, the warlords of Boaco VI are overthrown and replaced with a Council of Youngers (TOS:46, 23). Two years before Enterprise visit.

The Onlies are placed into the Program, a rehabilitation center run by Dr. Voltmer. Voltmer attempts to modify the children's behavior with a modified Tantalus Chair. Several children become psychotic and steal an experimental Starfleet vessel, and nearly precipitate a war over the Boacan system between Klingon, Romulan, and Federation forces before being stopped. Voltmer is arrested for his actions (TOS:46, 151).

The Golden Hind falls out of Earth orbit, obliterating the town of Devon in England (TOS:40, 55).

A nuclear power plant accident destroys Archangel (? On Earth or colony) (TOS:40, 174).

Klingon intelligence begins to seed Federation and Starfleet positions with sleeper agents who are supposedly orphans from prominent disaster sites across the Federation, such as Devon, Archangel, and New Athens (TOS:40, 174).

The Federation Council finally approves the development of Vulcan's Warrantor program to counter any possible civil war within the Federation (five years prior to TOS: 25) (TOS: 25, 19).

A grain blight threatens the Klingon Empire with starvation, reinforcing the Klingon expansionist agendas. Captured Starfleet agronomist Jean Czerny helps to develop a strain that is resistant to the blight (TOS: 26)

The Organians are asked to intervene and deal with the Iruhe. The Iruhe disappear from the galaxy (TOS: 35, 107).

2275

Project Magnet's personnel are reassigned to Project Sign, under the authority of the Starfleet Technical Intelligence Division (ST: P, 128).

2270s

---

Starfleet Command uses senceiver implants to communicate and to monitor command staff (ST: TMP, 15). One would assume the events on Helvan would have discouraged this program after a few years.

Starfleet constructs the Firechain, a group of cloaked sensor drones along the Klingon Neutral Zone to monitor Klingon activity. The central control of the Firechain is built on Dekkanar (TOS: 48, 26) (conjecture)

2280s

---

The Romulans and Klingons kidnap members of the Warrantor in order to foment unrest in the Federation. The plan backfires and over the course of six months four of the hostages are killed. The Enterprise effects the rescue of the two survivors from the Klingon Empire (TOS: 25)

The novel Strangers from the Sky by Garamet Jen-Saunor is published, revealing Vulcan's first contact in the Earth in the year 2045.

Tensions throughout the Alpha quadrant are strained following the Genesis debacle (ST:IV, 19).

Starfleet launches the first of the Galaxy starships, small scouting ships designed for Transwarp speeds. The Magellan, under the command of Mandala Flynn, becomes the first Starfleet vessel to reach Andromeda (TOS:17, 37).

The Probe enters the Alpha Quadrant and passes through the Romulan Empire. It interrupts a Romulan training mission near Kruzaak's World where the ships mount an ineffectual attack against the Probe (TOS:P, 266).

The Probe enters Federation space and approaches Earth. The vessel begins to ionize the planet's atmosphere, threatening to wipe out all life in violent weather storms. The Enterprise crew, returning for trial in a stolen Klingon bird-of-prey, use the solar slingshot theory to go back in time to retrieve two humpback whales, who have the ability to respond to the probe. The Probe leaves Earth and enters First Federation space (TOS:P)

The Romulan Praetor, often said to be third in name but first in power, dies. An Interim Committee takes control and begins a period of reform in which the Orthodox lists and Banned Lists of the Empire are abolished. The Committee retains power for several months before hardliners assert control (TOS:P).

The Probe leaves First Federation space and enters the Romulan Empire. The Probe then destroys all sentient life on Wlaariivi, an event that hardliners within the Romulan Empire use as leverage to end the new reforms within the Empire and to cut off the new diplomatic ties to the Federation. Meaningful contact is made by Romulan and Federation teams and its programming is expanded to include land based lifeforms as sentient. (TOS:P).

Ambassador St. John Talbot fails in an attempt to release Andorian hostages taken by Charuhlans seeking to force the Andorian government to give them say in the senate. (ST:V, 72)

Tellarites declare war on the Calligar following the death of Tellarite Ambassador Shondar Dorkin. A minor holiday is created in his name (TOS:57, 273)

Thak the Andorian writes a play based on the Calligar and wins the Zankar-Bowles Prize for creative fiction (TOS:57, 274).

Doctor Richard Daystrom combines elements of M-5 technology with research on Calligar technology to create the groundwork for current holodeck design; referred to as Daystrom's Comeback (TOS:57, 274).

2293

The Organians mysteriously disappear (STIV, 11).

Klingon raiders attack the Federation colony of Kudao. Soon after, the Federation research base at Themis is attacked by Klingon forces: Carol Marcus is critically injured (STG, 7).

The Enterprise-A is assigned to escort Klingon Chancellor Gorkon to the peace conference at Khitomer. En route, the Klingon vessel is fired upon and Gorkon assassinated. All evidence indicates that the Enterprise fired upon the Klingon ship. Kirk and McCoy are tried in a Klingon court and sentenced to the penal colony of Rura Penthe. The two are subsequently rescued by the Enterprise and uncover a conspiracy among elements of Starfleet, the Klingon Empire, and the Romulan Empire to sabotage the peace talks using a Klingon vessel capable of firing while cloaked. With the help of the Excelsior commanded by Captain Sulu, the Klingon vessel is destroyed and an assassination attempt of the Federation president is foiled.

Ambassador Sarek discovers that Romulan operatives, using orphaned Vulcans, have disguised themselves as an alien race known as the Freelans and are influencing events both in the Klingon Empire and in the Federation. With the help of the Enterprise crew and elements of the Romulan and Klingon fleets, the ambassador stops an invasion of Federation space by renegade Klingons and exposes the Freelans for what they are, averting interstellar war (ST:S).
